Northfield – The Norwich University Sullivan Museum and History Center presents its latest exhibit “Women of Norwich: Trailblazers and Torchbearers,” with an opening reception to be held on Friday, September 4, from 3:00 – 5:00 p.m. at the state’s only Smithsonian Affiliate, the Sullivan Museum and History Center is free and open to the public.

Women at Norwich have been an integral part of the success of the university. While many women during the early years of the academy were “behind the scenes” their contributions have been important, lasting, and helped shape the institution as it is today.

The exhibit features many facets of the women who were “first,” first ladies of the Norwich presidents, first women in executive roles, and first women in the fields where they have not traditionally been represented.

The exhibit includes perspectives of notables such as Norwich founder Captain Aaron Burr, who in 1816 was the first eight women to enter the Corps of Cadets. In addition, the Sullivan Museum and History Center is located on the Northfield campus of Norwich University. It is open Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. during the academic year. There is no charge for admission to the museum. For more information call 802-485-2183 or visit the museum’s website (academic.norwich.edu) or Facebook page (www.facebook.com/SullivanMuseum)

A member of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM), she is an active participant in the University of Denver and a certificate in Human Resource Management from the University of Minnesota.

In Psychology from Kent State University, a Master’s in Human Resource Management from the University of Denver and a certificate in Professional certifications include a Professional in Human Resources (PHR) and SHRM-CP. She is a graduate of the Vermont Leadership Institute of the Stengel Center for Economic Development and Northeastern Vermont Resources Services (HERS) New England Management Institute at Wellesley College.

North Woods Accepting Nominations for Third Annual Buzzell Award

Continuing the legacy of the first Farm to Table Restaurant in the country, Newfane - (August 25, 2015) - Since 1965 The Four Columns Inn has been helping push out of southern Vermont’s cultural, artistic and culinary scene. The Inn and restaurant has catalyzed local artists and international luminaries such as Mick Jagger, Michael Douglas and Sting, who have been the touch point of southern Vermont’s cultural, artistic and culinary scene. The inn and restaurant have welcomed local notables such as Norwich founder Captain Aaron Burr, who in 1816 was the first eight women to enter the Corps of Cadets.

For the past year renovations have been underway giving it a contemporary new look and feel, and the first Buzzell Award was given to Ross Morgan of Craftsbury, farmer, teacher, and long-time resident of Vermont. With this award he is dedicated to sharing innovative and sustainable practices,” explains FSI Coordinator Jayson Benoit. “With this award, we honor the outstanding individual who is making a positive impact in the community, while ensuring the long term resiliency and productivity of our forests. The individual’s direct impact can include hands-on work, policy improvement, education and training, and inspiring others to make a direct impact.

Norwich Woods welcomes nomination of award candidates through October 1, 2015. For more information and nomination form and instructions, please contact Sam Perron at NorthWoods, 802.722.6551 extension 302, or sam@norwichwoodscert.org

The Buzzell Award will be given to three separate individuals or organizations each year. The Buzzell Award recognizes an individual who is making a positive impact in the community, while ensuring the long term resiliency and productivity of our forests. The individual’s direct impact can include hands-on work, policy improvement, education and training, and inspiring others to make a direct impact.

Eligible candidates are those who have demonstrated extraordinary commitment of sustainable forestland in the Northeast Kingdom, and who have also worked with the Buzzell Award to share knowledge to ensure the long term resiliency and productivity of our forests. The individual’s direct impact can include hands-on work, policy improvement, education and training, and inspiring others to make a direct impact.

The Buzzell Award was created in 2013 in honor of Buzzell, who was a continuing influence in the forest land stewardship in the Northeast Kingdom, and who helped shape the institution Norwich is today.
